 Drain Echo About two weeks ago a land silde occurred between Elkton and Scottsburg ill started near Jack Davie's barn and sild one and one half inlies. It was about thirty feel wide at the surface of the ground, and from ten for its wenty feet at the bottom. It moved trees, logs and rocks before it and left the bare bed rock exposed, over which a nice little stream of water now flows.

 East Oregonian Willie Roush, son of John Raush, while out hunting in Crooked creek valley a few days ago, was sequely, if not fatally wounded by the gun coming unjointed. The barrels fell to the ground, striking the cap on a rock, which exploided the charge, driving the shot through the boy's right teg, just above the knee. After being wounded the boy took the two pieces of the gun and crawled to his home, a half mile distant.
